2012 OPWA Spring Workshop

Old Problems, New Opportunities

Thursday April 12, 2012

The 2012 Spring Technical Workshop is a continuation of the previously popular subject of municipal and utility cooperative efforts in the road allowance. Learn about new and innovative I.T. solutions for project management, tracking of ROP's and identifying future road and utility rehabilitation forecasts.

Attendees will get an opportunity to listen and share the challenges faced by municipal owners, utilities, project managers, and contractors when constructing or replacing above and underground infrastructure. Representatives from these sectors will provide several informative presentations, including:

- The use of I.T. solutions like map-based software for ROW coordination;
- Asset Management, plant replacement and stakeholder coordination – A review of a large utility companies' managing techniques;
- Call-Before-You-Dig legislation – A review Bills 180 & 8, 811#'s and ON1Call transition to Not-For-Profit status and ramifications for owners and excavators;
- One city's collaborative efforts with three large utilities to develop efficiencies on major road rehabilitation project – a case study of on-site struggles & best practices;
- The development of a program to minimize sewer penetration when using trenchless technology by Ontario's two largest gas distribution companies.

Learn from practical experience and the challenges faced and discover the opportunities that can make your own municipal rehabilitation or utility project more successful. This is sure to be an informative and worthwhile day.
